

POLICE HUNT DOCTOR.

Arrest in Winthrop Murder Case is Imminent.

CRIME TO HIDE A CRIME.

Horrible Find Off Winthrop, Mass., of Headless and Limbless Body of Woman—Strange Man With Suit Case Seen Day Before.

Boston, Sept. 23.—The headless and limbless body of a young woman was found floating in a suit case Thursday, off the Winthrop Yacht club house, and was brought here yesterday morning and an autopsy was performed. Yesterday a man was seen carrying a suit case toward a bridge at Winthrop and the state police were yesterday directing their efforts to try and discover the identity of this man. From the description furnished, his suit case looked exactly like the one found in the water. Deputy Neal believes the man who placed the body in the water is a prominent physician, who dismembered the body after performing a criminal operation.

"Death by septic poisoning, due to a criminal operation," was the finding at the autopsy held yesterday afternoon on the body.

The police expect to make the arrest of the doctor who performed the operation shortly.

Coincidentally with the autopsy, performed at Briggs' undertaking rooms in Howard street by Dr. Harris, Professor Whitney, of Harvard, and Dr. Brown,

The Times' Daily Short Story.

The Harakiri Sword

(Original.)

When the late Russo-Japanese war was at its height and the 4th Japanese Infantry was awaiting orders, or, rather, transportation across the sea of Japan, Lieutenant Sakae Seshimo fell ill, and the hospital facilities not being suited to his case the surgeon ordered his removal to a private house. He was taken to one in which dwelt an old woman alone with her niece. The aunt was an invalid requiring a great deal of care, but her niece found time to do much for the lieutenant. Often when he was burning with fever he would feel a cool hand on his forehead and, opening his eyes, would see a sympathetic face looking down into his. There would usually be a smile on the girl's lips, intended for encouragement, and a world of sympathy would look out at him through her eyes. Her name translated into English would mean Sunshine, and she was well named, for she gave warmth to the hearts of those about her.

Sunshine seldom came to Seshimo's room but that she was followed by her aunt, whose health did not prevent her from moving about the house. Seshimo inferred that the aunt had some property and the niece had nothing. This was true, and, in addition, the aunt did not intend that Sunshine should marry a soldier. The old lady preferred that her niece should marry an ordinary man who had a good chance to live, rather than a hero who was doomed to go to his ancestors.

There was one whom the aunt proposed Sunshine should marry; that was Junjo Amakuki, a contractor who was getting rich furnishing supplies to the army. Here was something the old lady could appreciate. She was willing to give all praise to the gallant defenders of their country, but for a husband for her niece she preferred the contractor. Sunshine, on the contrary, detested the dried up old man and worshipped the brave boys who were going to save Japan.

Sakae Seshimo, when the regiment sailed for the mainland, was able to march to Junjo Amakuki, who has been sending decayed meat and spoiled rice to the army. I have looked for the contractor at his house and, not finding him, was told that he might be here.

At that moment Amakuki came up the steps and the messenger, turning, offered him the sword. The contractor, seeing it, staggered into another room and the door was closed behind him.

Thus it turned out that Seshimo was permitted to remain on earth with the girl he loved, and his rival, Amakuki, was sent to his ancestors, who doubtless gave him a very cool reception.

Billousness, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, disturbed sleep, nervousness, headache, giddiness and drowsiness, wind and pain or fullness of the stomach after meals, cold chills and flushings of heat, shortness of breath—these are the blank cheques of physical bankruptcy.

The man who suffers from these disorders and neglects them will soon be in the relentless grasp of some fatal disease. If he is naturally narrow chested and shallow lunged, it will probably be consumption; if his father or mother died of paralysis or some nervous trouble, it will probably be nervous exhaustion or prostration, or even insanity; if there is a taint in the family blood, it will be blood or skin disease; if he lives in a new or a low, swampy country, it will be malaria; if he lives a life of exposure, it may be rheumatism. There is one safe course for a man to follow who finds himself "out of sorts" and suffering from the symptoms described. It is to resort to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine makes the appetite keen, corrects all disorders of the digestion, renders assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood and builds firm, healthy flesh and nerve tissue. It cures almost all diseases that result from "insufficient or improper nourishment" of the brain and nerves. Bronchial, throat, and even lung affections, when not too far advanced, readily yield to it.

A man or woman who neglects his or her health suffers from loss of appetite, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little Pellet is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equalled.

The police were searching for the physician whose skillful knife must have dismembered the body of the woman. They know his name; they know his address. But he is not there.

It seems that he disappeared a few days ago, immediately following the disappearance of his wife. This disappearance of the woman, coming first, makes the police believe that the dead woman may have been the doctor's wife. Certain it is that after the woman's death her slayer, or some one else, performed an autopsy on the body to find the cause of death.

JAPANESE IN FERMENT

Petitions, to the Mikado Oppose Peace Treaty.

INTENSE INDIGNATION.

Among the Influential Classes—Editors Name Committee—Appeal to Government on Suspension of Papers.

Tokio, Sept. 23.—The number of direct memorials to the throne from different associations and individuals condemning the peace treaty, and asking that it be not ratified, exceeds 40, among which is an address signed by six professors of the imperial university, one of whom was recently placed on the retired list owing to his strongly worded anti-peace thesis.

In spite of persistent editorials in the leading newspapers demanding the resignation of the cabinet, it is believed that the ministers will continue to hold office until after the adoption of the post-bellum measures, especially those regarding finance and Chinese and Korean problems.

It transpires that in spite of Premier Katsura's assurance to the contrary to the editors, there exists a clause in the peace treaty by which Japan undertakes not to fortify Sayo strait. As a result intense indignation is felt among the influential classes, as this is deemed to be the greatest humiliation Japan has ever suffered. The restriction thus placed on her territorial liberty is looked upon as constituting the blackest record in the history of a country which has never experienced defeat at the hands of other nations. Not a few papers are expected to print strongly worded editorials on this subject.

The constitutionalists are gradually assuming a firm attitude of opposition to the government. The editors of 10 daily papers met yesterday and appointed a committee to make representations to the government on the subject of the unusually long suspension of the Asahi and four other papers, all evening papers. The committee had an interview with Gen. Sakuma, commander-in-chief of the Tokyo garrison, who is in charge of the enforcement of martial and other authorities, and it is expected that the unfortunate newspapers will soon be allowed to resume publication.

A solitary instance of public rejoicing will take place at a meeting to be held today at Kotaka, a town in the remote northeast corner of the mainland of Nippon.

Capt. W. Boisman, a prisoner of war and former commander of the Russian battleship Pereviet, has died at Matsuyama. Rear Admiral Nebogotoff and several other Russian naval officers have been permitted to give their parole and return home. Rear Admiral Rozhdestvensky has almost recovered from his wound, but he is still under strict medical care in Fushimi.

THREW BOMB AT BANK.

Explosion Hurt Only Thrower, a Young Warsaw Jew.

Warsaw, Sept. 23.—An attempt was made at noon yesterday to destroy the Reshevsky Bank. A man threw a bomb at an open window of the bank, but missed, and the bomb exploded in the courtyard, dangerously injuring the thrower, a young Jew.

It appears that the attempt was due to the refusal of the bank officials to contribute to the funds of the revolutionists.

Consort of Korean Ruler Has Miss Roosevelt as Her Guest.

Seoul, Sept. 23.—Miss Alice Roosevelt and the women of her party attended a women's luncheon at the palace Thursday. On the Emperor's consort, who was hostess, proposed a toast to Miss Roosevelt.

It was the first time in the history of the country that the women of the palace had entertained foreigners. Mrs. Bunkers and Mrs. Underwood, missionaries, acted as interpreters.

American Minister Morgan and British Minister Jordan gave a reception on Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Roosevelt, to whom the Korean cabinet, the diplomatic corps, Gen. Hasegawa, commander of the Japanese troops in Korea, and his staff, leading Korean officers and prominent foreign residents.

ALLEGES CONSPIRACY.

Hearing on Murder Charge in Case of Hugh Watt.

London, Sept. 23.—There was a further hearing yesterday of the charge against Hugh Watt, a former member of Parliament, of attempting to hire Marshall, a private detective, to assist him in murdering his former wife, but little developed beyond an intimation that the defense would allege that the charge with the result of a conspiracy on the part of Marshall and other witnesses.

A cattle dealer alleged that he overheard a conversation between Marshall and another man, during which Watt was threatened.

The evidence of the cattleman was taken at this stage, so as to allow him to proceed to Canada.

The prosecution called a barkeeper nicknamed "Nosy," who testified that Watt gave him money to buy chloroform with which to kill Mrs. Watt.

The Chrome Process at the Bethel Tannery.

The E. C. Fisher Co. has been experimenting for the past six months in the use of the chrome process for tanning leather at its Bethel tannery, and after many apparent failures and much spoiled stock, has apparently mastered the details of this process and the Bethel tannery is now turning out a very fine chrome process product.

The tanning is done by the use of chemicals and the company is now making by this process patent leather only. Under the old process by the use of bark it took about sixty days to make a green hide into finished leather. By the new method only ten days are used. The tanning process itself takes only an hour and a half to two hours, and it is claimed that the leather made is fire and water proof and much tougher.

Just now there is a great demand for leather made by this process and the Fisher company has orders ahead for all it can make for the coming nine months. The details of the process used are not known to the general public, and the secret is jealously guarded, in fact, at the Bethel tannery no single employee understands but a portion of the process.

The Fisher company has not entirely abandoned the use of hemlock bark tanning and will continue the use of that process on a sufficiently large scale to consume the bark offered by the local market, at least.

Used Horse as a Lifeboat.

A father riding a horse in midstream in Spring Gardens to rescue his two sons was a sight witnessed by several hundred persons at the summer resorts along the shore during the storm. The children were John C. and Alvin J. Weiss, sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Weiss, 418 Robert street.

The boys were in a rowboat when the storm came up, and, losing their oars, were swept out by the heavy wind and the boat upset and the boys were thrown into the water. Persons on shore saw them and became alarmed. Mr. Fred Sacks started in a row boat, but the wind was too strong and he was forced to give up the rescue. By this time the father heard of the boys' peril and, running to the shore, wanted to give up the idea. Mr. John E. Kirby suggested that Mr. Weiss ride a horse he had at the resort out into the stream. At first the horse refused to enter the water, but a woman offered her shawl to Mr. Weiss, and the animal was blindfolded.

Going into the water at a good gait, the animal was soon in deep water, and swam with its rider to where the boys were. Alvin was rescued first and placed on the horse in front of his father. As Mr. Weiss grabbed for the second son the boy went under, but Mr. Weiss caught him as he came to the surface, and all three were carried safely ashore by the horse.—Baltimore Sun.

Silver Quartz Near Sing Sing.

Ossining, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Silver quartz was found near Sing Sing prison yesterday, close to the site of an abandoned silver mine, which was wrecked by the English before the revolutionary war.

At the beginning of the war the miners, most of whom were English, were driven away and never returned. In 1820 and again in 1837 attempts were made to pump out the old mine, but the quantity of silver obtained was too

Raid on Milk Dealers.

Hartford, Ct., Sept. 23.—Following the announcement by the health board here that 45 cases of typhoid fever have developed in this city in the last month, a raid was made on some of the milk dealers Thursday.

One milkman was forced to throw away 400 quarts of milk. The milk was all right when it came from the cows, but the cans or bottles were washed in contaminated water. The practice of using paper cups on bottles and then submerging the bottles in water to keep cool may be prohibited, as it is said that the caps are not waterproof and the milk is contaminated.
